

Discussion Sheet, Page 5

Child's Play

Supply your child with a selection of objects – it doesn't make much difference what they are. Just try to avoid sharp edges, pointy things, and stuff small enough for her to get in her mouth. Then, sit back and watch the fun! Allowing her imagination to take over is a great way to exercise her mind.

It may be the passageway to Wonderland ... or just a new way to get to her favorite doll.

Pulling Toys

Wagons are popular toys at this age. Your child will enjoy collecting all of his special treasures and pulling them around the house.

Blocks

Toddlers love to stack six large blocks.

Dancing

Turn on some music and dance, dance, dance. Don't be surprised if your toddler has different taste in music than you do, though.

Playing Chase

Toddlers love to play chase with big exaggerated movements. Act surprised when you catch them.

Somersaults

Your toddler will naturally start to explore different ways of getting from point A to point B. You will often find him with both his head and feet on the ground.

Bead Necklaces

Using pipe cleaners and large macaroni pasta, show your child how to string the "beads." Then let him try.

